THIS smiling little boy is getting a boost on the road to recovery in the newly renovated, under-the-sea themed Pediatric In-Patient Treatment Room at Harlem Hospital. The room is shown before (above, l.) and after (r.) renovations done by the nonprofit Project Sunshine and volunteers from investment firm Blackstone. Project Sunshine's Executive Director Beatrice Kernan said, "Thanks to special support from our Blackstone employee volunteers, Project Sunshine has been able to transform Harlem Hospital's pediatric treatment room into a welcoming, child-friendly environment that will bring relief from stress and imaginative diversion to over 2,000 young, brave patients each year."
